FITNESS: INSIDE AND OUT

You may have heard about how slaves of days past were forbidden to exercise, lest they gain enough strength to fight back. This is often juxtaposed with the modern push towards weakness and emasculation. While it's humorous at first, you could reasonably argue that dopamine addicted NPCs are a form of slave.

Many struggle to go a full day without television, video games, or pornography—the most potent forms of super stimuli. They work their jobs, often for laughable wages, to earn enough money to buy garbage food – goyslop – that's slowly killing them. They spend the rest of their income on the latest video games and films, often written by far-left degenerates who clumsily insert their pathetic ideologies at every turn—yet another form of goyslop. They just barely make rent and then they feel as though, somehow, others are to blame for their circumstances.

If you suggested to these people that they should cut out these wasteful "hobbies" (really, can you call sitting in front of a screen and watching propaganda a hobby?), most would scoff at you. With unearned smugness, they might extol the virtues of their favorite goyslop. They'll readily defend even the most degenerated behaviors, such as extreme porn consumption, if they're engaging in it themselves. The idea of working out a few times a week, eating clean, and purging the goyslop, all terrifies them. They don't understand why it scares them because they don't realize that it's all part of a complex dopamine addiction, but they don't want to hear that either.

The unwillingness to improve ones character is almost as bad as being physically unfit. If a person was in excellent physical shape – well defined muscles, little body fat, and so on – they could still be internally unfit. The person inside that fit body could be a degenerate who would sell out their own mother for hard drugs. Being "fit" is more than just being strong or attractive.

Ask yourself: Am I fit for my role? Am I an honorable person? Do I have the strength to do what is necessary, regardless of the circumstances?

Our movement must strive towards excellence and fitness—not just of body, but of mind. We hope to help you find the motivation to attain peak fitness. If not for yourself, do it for your folk and their future!

"It is a disgrace to grow old through sheer carelessness before seeing what manner of man you may become by developing your bodily strength and beauty to their highest limit. But you cannot see that, if you are careless; for it will not come of its own accord."

- Socrates, as quoted by his student Xenophon in Memorabilia (Book III, verse 7.8), first published circa 371 BC.

YOU MUST HAVE CHARACTER TO WALK THE PATH

Century Fascist by

One's Character is their true inner nature. Fascism prizes the great, strong, firm character over the weak and soft, for that is the character that can uphold our values and honor Truth. One's intelligence comes second, for a person of great character may not be the smartest, but he will stand taller than the person of weak character, who is more intelligent. In fact, the latter is the perfect description of the intellectual, of the modern man in general.

The person of weak character desperately needs some modicum of intelligence to have the skills for rationalizing why his lack of will power (a trait of a strong character) doesn't matter or should not be taken into account. It is these people who will try to intellectually justify degeneracy – foremost their own, and then that of others, to secure their own standing. "Faggotry is not a problem" is something only a faggot or a smart idiot will say, ignoring that faggotry is often the consequence of a small and weak character—as is the case for all degeneracy.

A simple and humble man may be far more virtuous than the intellectual, and thus we do not prize intellect itself, and would not offend said man for not being the smartest. "Smart" and "dumb" do not figure in our worldview as substitutes for "good" and "bad," nor do they rank as the all-defining human traits—only Character can fulfill that task. Thus, we also do not recognize the "smart" jobs as the superior ones. Instead, we recognize the effort of the man fulfilling the task he was meant for, as per his Character:

"Each has his task in the community, given to him according to his gifts. Never do all have the same task, but rather each his own. His task gives him a place in the community, if he fulfills it completely, he wins the esteem of the others. He is happy, even if his task is not large in the overall scheme of things."

"A worker on the street can stand higher in the ranks than a government minister if he has better done his duty."

- From Faith and Action, by Helmut Stellrecht, first published in 1938

In reality, intelligence is a tool, and like any tool it can be wielded for good or ill, and what determines one's use of that tool is, again, Character. The small man will use intellect to justify his shortcomings and to secure his petty interests, to protect his own hide and swindle others. Thus intellect serves to create ideas like equality and communism. A great man will use intellect in service to a higher task that he seeks to realize, in service to a greater principle that dictates a necessity, rather than a personal whim. Thus, intellect serves to create the Organic State.

"As our spiritual experience shows, above the outer logic of reason, conditioned by the senses, rises an internal logic of fate. And we perceive it not by the brain, but by blood which uses the brain for its own goals or in spite of it. The arguments of blood are not convincing, they are compulsory. Its goals are not logical constructs but are the consequence of necessity. Its main organ is the heart. And that which in relation to the brain we call reason, in relation to the heart we call character."

- From "Character," by Ernst Jünger, as first published in Die Standarte, May 13th 1926

No matter whom you look at in the Pantheon of Fascist champions, you cannot in all honesty declare any of them "intellectuals," rather you see men of great Character who also possessed great intellect, and not necessarily academic smarts, but worldly knowledge of how the world around them operates. That intellect was subservient to their goals and their character, establishing them foremost as Men of Action, rather than men of pen and paper. Even well educated people like William Luther Pierce spoke without pretense of intellectual superiority, and the content of their speeches was always that of Action, as opposed to the kind of speaking one might hear during various "think tank" get-togethers.

These people spoke plainly but they spoke of things of great magnitude, something that is impossible for an intellectual, for his instinct drives him towards either analyzing and dismantling and picking away at things until there is nothing left; or towards making mountains out of molehills as they proceed to over-intellectualize the most basic of things. Intellect left to its own devices is a tool for tearing at the very fabric of reality or satisfying one's own ego, whereas the intellect subservient to great character is a creative force that helps us return closer to the Truth.

These types think themselves to be the next social elite, whereupon they can occupy stuffy cabinets with leather chairs and sip wine whilst stroking each other's egos over meaningless yammering coated in complex wording. Well let them dream. Reality of the matter is, however, that history shall repeat itself once again, as these intellectuals will find themselves trampled underneath the jackboots of "low brow" "thugs" (the favored insult towards fascists in the past, all of them, from Hitler and Mussolini to Sir Oswald Mosley and Rockwell, to Codreanu, Italo Balbo, Joseph Tommasi and etc.) – the very ones they thought would be doing their bidding.

And from the ranks of those "thugs" the new elite will come forth.

CHOOSE YOUR DISCIPLINE

You can learn even the most complicated skills with an hour of daily practice. You'd be shocked with how quickly it happens. That thing you wish you could do - that skill you've wished for since you were a kid - could be yours this year. You could start grinding today.

How do you spend your spare time? Do you keep track of your time usage at all, or do you just go with the flow? Do you know how many hours you spend watching television, playing video games, or shitposting? Can you cut an hour (or two, or three) out of your schedule to learn a new discipline?

games, or shitposting? Can you cut an hour (or two, or three) out of your schedule to learn a new discipline?

It's time to get serious. We need programmers, artists, musicians, and other highly skilled frens. Our opposition has billions of dollars in play money and cutting edge technology to spend it on. If we're going to win then we need to start pushing back. That means developing the aforementioned skills and learning to make our own tools, infrastructure, and culture.

You might think it's hopeless, but we have a few advantages of our own. We're not weighed down by diversity hiring. For every low-IQ diversity hire brought into the FAGMAN sphere, their codebase gets degraded. They have a growing number of bugs and an ever worsening user experience because of it. The big media studios are facing similar issues, as they're hiring ideologically motivated writers who have zero talent. They self-insert and write ham-fisted monologues about how great their ideals are. At this point even some mainstream critics are starting to groan. Former powerhouses like Disney have gone from producing universally loved films to making universally hated drivel.

There's a deep hunger for well-made films, charming music, and functional software. We don't have to make all of it ideological. A well-made piece of software, with fairly boilerplate code, and no political themes, can pull in a lot of profit. Look at something like Cruelty Squad or Murdoch Murdoch* and you'll realize that you don't need to be a savant to succeed, even if you're creating something with controversial themes. If we start to release more products we can fund the movement. No one needs to know their money is going towards ideological aims if you don't want them to—that's the best part. Consumers don't realize their money is being sucked up by genocidal jews as it is, so what's the big difference?

All the consumer wants is to consume. They'll pick the best thing relevant to their interests and within their price range, presuming they're aware of it.

Take up a discipline and start making something. If you're interested in art, pick up a pencil and start drawing. If you want to gamedev, crack open a coding textbook. If you love music, learn to play an instrument. Start to collaborate with other frens once you've got the basics down. Full mastery is not necessary—that'll come with time.

If we work together we can exploit this opening in the market. We need to create our own culture to offer as an alternative to the public. We need to create our own tools that work better than the bloatware being forced down our throats. We need to promote our own artists and designers that the next generation of children can look up to.

What's the alternative? Letting some troon in "programmer socks" make borderline spyware that you're forced to use at your corporate job? Having our children look up to mumble rappers who only care about getting high? That's exactly what we'll get if you don't choose a discipline and get started.

^{*}We don't use these examples to disparage them. Much the opposite—they're inspiring! Cruelty Squad's creator has said that it was a learning project. He was teaching himself development as he went. Despite the extreme visual style, "politically incorrect" plot, and spaghetti code, it was a smash hit. If online revenue estimates are to be believed, it made a few million dollars. Murdoch Murdoch didn't make nearly as much cash, but it created thousands of new ideological converts. It's an admittedly ugly animation, but it was made with passion and it disarmed people with its humor. Rnyone can do it!

Propaganda is for the Masses

The following excerpt is taken from Adolf Hitler's Mein Kampf, Volume 1, Chapters 6.1 – 6.6, as translated by Dr. Thomas Dalton. Hitler explains the difference between effective and ineffective propaganda, all the while illustrating the necessity of weaponizing propaganda to defeat our enemies.

6.1 THE PURPOSE OF PROPAGANDA

Germany was waging war for its very existence. The purpose of its war propaganda should have been to strengthen the fighting spirit in that struggle, and to help bring about victory.

But when nations are fighting for their existence on this earth, when the fateful question of to be or not to be' must be answered, then all humane and aesthetic considerations must be set aside. These ideals don't float about in the air, but are the product of man's creative imagination; they disappear when he disappears. Nature knows nothing of them. Moreover, they are characteristic of only a small number of nations - or rather, of races - and their value depends on the degree to which they spring from the national or racial feeling. Humane and aesthetic ideals will disappear from the inhabited earth when those races that created and upheld them disappear.

All such ideals are only of secondary importance when a nation is fighting for its existence. In act, they must be excluded from the struggle as soon as they threaten to weaken the nation's power of self-preservation. That has always been their only visible effect.

As for humanitarianism, Moltke stated that in time of war, one must reach the quickest decision, and that the most ruthless methods of fighting are also the most humane.

When people attempt to answer this reasoning with nonsense about aesthetics and so on, only one answer can be given: that the vital questions involved in the struggle of a nation for its existence must not be subordinated to aesthetic considerations. The yoke of slavery is and always will remain the most unpleasant experience that mankind can endure. Do the Schwabing decadents look upon Germany's lot today as 'aesthetic'? And we certainly don't have to discuss such a question with the Jews, because they are the modem inventors of this cultural perfume. Their very existence is an incamate denial of the aesthetics of God's image.

Since these ideals of humanitarianism and beauty have no place in warfare, they must not be used as standards of war propaganda.

During the war, propaganda was a means to an end. And this end was the struggle for existence of the German nation. Propaganda, therefore, should have been regarded from the standpoint of its usefulness for that purpose. The cruelest weapons were then the most humane, provided they helped towards a speedier victory. And only those methods were good and heautiful that helped secure the dignity and freedom of the nation.

Such was the only possible attitude to adopt towards war propaganda in a life-or-death struggle.

If those so-called responsible authorities had realized this, there would have been no uncertainty about the form and use of war propagand as a weapon; it is nothing but a weapon, and indeed a most terrifying weapon in the hands of those who know how to use it.

6.2 PROPAGANDA ONLY FOR THE MASSES

The second question of decisive importance is this: To whom should propaganda be addressed? To the educated intellectual classes, or to the less educated masses?

Propaganda must always address itself to the masses!

For the so-called intelligentsia, propaganda is not appropriate, but rather scientific instruction. Propaganda has as little to do with science as an advertisement poster has to do with art. The art of the poster consists in the designer's ability to attract the attention of the crowd through form and colors. A poster announcing an exhibition of art has no other aim than to convince the public of the importance of the exhibition. The better it does that, the better it is. Being meant to impress upon the public the meaning of the exposition, the poster can never take the place of the art on display. They are two entirely different things. Therefore, those who wish to study the artistic display must study something that's quite different from the poster-and it won't be enough to merely wander through the gallery. The student of art must carefully and thoroughly study each exhibit in order to form a judicious opinion about it.

The situation is the same with respect to the word "propaganda."

The purpose of propaganda is not the personal instruction of the individual, but rather to attract public attention to certain things—the importance of which can be impressed upon the

The art of propaganda consists in putting a matter so clearly and forcibly that is creates a general conviction regarding the reality, necessity, and justice of a certain essential thing. But this art is not an end in itself. Its purpose must be exactly that of the advertisement poster: to attract the attention of the masses. It should not dispense individual instructions to those who already have an educated opinion on things, or who wish to form such an opinion on grounds of objective study. This is not the purpose of propaganda. It must appeal to the feelings of the public rather than to their so-called rationality.

All propaganda must be presented in a popular form; it must adjust its intellectual level to the least intelligent of those to whom it is directed. Thus its purely intellectual level will have to be that of the lowest mental common denominator among the public it is desired to reach. When it's a question of bringing a whole nation within the circle of its influence-as in the case of war propaganda—then great care must be taken to avoid a high level, which presupposes a relatively high degree of intelligence among the public.

The more modest the scientific tenor of this propaganda, and the more it is addressed exclusively to public sentiment, the more decisive will be its success. This is the best test of the value of a propaganda-and not the approval of a small group of intellectuals or artists.

6.3 THE PSYCHOLOGY OF PROPAGANDA

The art of propaganda consists precisely in being able to awaken the imagination of the public through an appeal to their feelings-that is, in finding the appropriate psychological form that will appeal to the hearts of the masses. The fact that our 'bright boys' don't understand this merely shows their conceit and mental laziness.

Once we see the need to concentrate the persuasive forces of propaganda on the masses, the following lesson results:

It's a mistake to make propaganda multi-sided, as if it were a system of scientific instruction.

The receptive powers of the masses are very restricted, and their understanding is feeble. On the other hand, they quickly forget. Such being the case, all effective propaganda must be confined to a few bare essentials, and those must be expressed in stereotyped formulas. These slogans should be persistently repeated until the very last individual has come to grasp the idea that has been put forth. If this principle is forgotten, and if an attempt is made to be abstract and general, the propaganda will turn out ineffective; the public won't be able to digest or retain what's offered to them in this way.

Therefore, propaganda must follow a simple line; correspondingly, the basic tactics must be psychologically efficient.

It was, for example, a fundamental mistake to ridicule the value of the enemy, as the Austrian and German comic papers did. The very principle here is a mistaken one. When they came face to face with the enemy, our soldiers had quite a different impression. Therefore, the mistake had disastrous results. Once the German soldier realized what a tough enemy he had to fight, he felt that he had been deceived by the makers of his information. Instead of strengthening and stimulating his fighting spirit, this information had quite the opposite effect. Finally he lost heart.

On the other hand, British and American war propaganda was psychologically efficient. By representing the Germans to their own people as barbarians and Huns, they were preparing their soldiers for the horrors of war, and safeguarding them against illusions. The most terrible weapons that those soldiers encountered in the field merely confirmed the information that they had already received, and their belief in the truth of the assertions made by their governments was accordingly reinforced. And their rage and hatred against the vile enemy was increased. The terrible havoc caused by the German weapons of war was only another illustration of the 'Hunnish' brutality of the barbarians; and their soldiers had no time to consider the fact that their own weapons were capable of an equal degree of terror.

Thus the British soldier was never allowed to feel that the information he received at how was false. Unfortunately he opposite was the case with the Germans, who finally wound up rejecting everything from home as pure swindle and humbug. All this was a result of the idea that any old simpleton-or anyone who was intelligent about 'other things'-could be entrusted with propaganda work. And they had no idea that propaganda demands the greatest psychological skill.

Thus the German war propaganda gave us an incomparable example of how the work of 'enlightenment' should not be done, and how such an example was the result of a complete failure to take any psychological considerations into account.

6.4 SUBJECTIVE - ONE-SIDED - NECESSARY!

From the enemy, however, much could be learned by those who kept their eyes open, whose powers of perception had not yet become sclerotic, and who, during four and a half years, had to experience the perpetual flood of enemy propaganda.

The worst of all was that our people didn't understand the very first rule of propaganda: namely, a systematically one-cided attitude towards every problem to be dealt with. In this regard, so many errors were committed, even from the very start of the war, that it was justifiable to doubt whether so much nonsense could really be attributed to the studidity of those in power.

What, for example, would we say of a poster that advertised some new brand of soap by insisting that the competitive brands were 'good'?

We would only shake our heads.

Exactly the same applies to political advertising.

The aim of propaganda is not to try to pass judgment on conflicting rights, giving each its due, but exclusively to emphasize the right that we are asserting. Propaganda must not investigate the truth objectively and, insofar as it is favorable to the other side, present it according to the academic fairness; it must present only that which is favorable to its own side.

It was a fundamental mistake to discuss the question of who was responsible for the outbreak of the war, and to declare that the sole responsibility could not be attributed to Germany. Sole responsibility should have been laid squarely on the shoulders of the enemy, without any discussion as to whether this was true or not.

And what was the consequence of these half-measures?

The broad masses of the people are not made up of diplomats, or professors of political law, nor simply of people who are able to form reasoned judgment about things. Rather, they are a vacillating, child-like crowd who are constantly wavering between one idea and another. As soon as our own propaganda made the slightest suggestion that the enemy might have some valid concerns, the foundations were laid for questioning the justice of our own cause. The masses are in no position to discem where the enemy's injustice ends and where ours begins. In such a case, they become hesitant and distrustful, especially when the enemy doesn't make the same mistake, but heaps all the blame on the other side.

Could there be any clearer proof than the fact that our own people believed the enemy's propaganda, which was uniform and consistent, rather than its own? And that, of course, was increased by the German mania for objectivity! Everybody become so careful about doing an injustice to the enemy, even at the cost of seriously injuring or uninjus his own people and state.

Naturally the masses were never aware of the fact that those in authority had failed to study the subject from this angle.

The great majority of a nation is so feminine in character and outlook that its thought and conduct are ruled by sentiment, rather than by sober reaconing

This sentiment, however, is not complex, but simple and consistent. It's not highly differentiated, but has only the negative and positive notions of love and hatred, right and wrong, truth and falsehood. Its notions are never partly this and partly that. English propaganda especially understood this in a marvelous way-and they acted accordingly. They allowed no halfmeasures that might have given rise to doubt.

Their brilliant understanding of the primitive feeling of the masses was shown in their policy of atrocity propaganda, which was adapted to the conditions of the time. They cleverly and ruthlessly prepared the ground for moral solidarity at the front, even in times of great defeats. Further, the way in which they prilloried the German enemy as solely responsible for the war- a brutal and absolute lie- and the way in which they proclaimed his guilt, was excellently calculated to reach the masses. They realized that the masses are always extreme in their feelings. And so this atrocious lie was believed.

The effectiveness of this kind of propaganda is well illustrated by the fact that, after four years, not only was the enemy still carrying on his propaganda work, but it was already undermining the stamina of our people at home.

It's no surprise that our propaganda didn't achieve similar results. It had the gern of inefficiency lodged in it by reason of its inner ambiguity. And because of the nature of its content, one couldn't expect it to make the necessary impression on the masses. Only our hare-brained 'statesmen' could have imagined that such pacifistic swill could have inspired the necessary passion that leads men to die for their country. And so this product of ours was not only worthless. but detriments

6.5 RESTRICTION ON PERSERVERANCE

No matter what amount of talent is employed in the organization of propaganda, it will be worthless if one doesn't take account of these fundamental principles. Propaganda must be limited to a few simple themes, and these must be represented again and again. Here, as in many other cases, perseverance is the first and most important condition for success.

Particularly in the field of propaganda, placid aesthetes and blasé intellectuals should never be allowed to take the lead. The former would readily transform the impressive character of real propaganda into something suitable only for literary tea parties. As to the second group, one must always beware of them because, lacking any fresh emotion of their own, they are always seeking new excitements.

Such people quickly tire of everything. They always long for change and will always be incapable of understanding the needs of their fellow men. They are always the first to criticize propagands or rather its message, because it appears to them to be outmoded in thivial. They are always looking for something new, always yearning for change, and thus they become the mortal enemies of all efforts to influence the masses in an effective way. The moment the organization and message of a propagandist movement begins to suit their tastes, it becomes incoherent and scattered.

The purpose of propaganda is not to create an interesting distraction for blase young men. Its chief function is to convince the masses, whose slowness of understanding needs to be given time to absorb the message. Only after the simplest ideas are repeated a thousand times will they finally remember them.

6.6 ENEMY WAR PROPAGANDA

Every change that's made in the propagandist message must always emphasize the same conclusion. The leading slogan must of course be illustrated in many ways and from several angles, but in the end, one must always return to the assertion of the same formula This is the only way that propaganda can have consistent and dynamic effects.

Only by following these general lines and steadfastly sticking to them, with uniform and consistent emphasis, can we attain final success. One will then be rewarded by the surprising and almost incredible results that such a persistent policy delivers.

The success of any advertisement, whether of a business or political nature, depends on the consistency and perseverance with which it is annified.

Here too, the enemy propaganda gave us an excellent example. It confined itself to a few themes, which were meant exclusively for mass consumption, and it repeated these themes with untining persistence. Once these fundamental themes and the manner of placing them before the world were recognized as correct, they adhered to them without the slightest alteration for the whole duration of the war. At first it appeared to be idilotic in its impudent assertiveness. Later it was looked upon as disturbing. But in the end, it was believed. After four and a half years, a revolution broke out in Germany; its slogans came from the enemy's war propaganda. But in England they came to understand something further, namely, that this intellectual weapon can succeed only if it's applied on a vast scale. But this success more than rewards the cost. Their propaganda was regarded as a first class weapon, while for us it was the last hope of unemployed politicians, and a cozy job for slackers.

All in all, and as expected, its results were zero.

From Ivory Tower To Privy Wall: On The Art Of Propaganda

by George Lincoln Rockwell

First published in National Socialist World Issue #1 (Spring, 1966).

IF EACH OF THE MEN in the fable about the blind men and the elephant were required to construct a model of an elephant, there would be three very different models. The blind man who felt only the tail would build a model as he described an elephant in the fable — as "a sort of rope." The blind man who felt the leg and said an elephant was like a tree would produce a tree-like "elephant," while the man who felt only the trunk would construct his "elephant" like a snake.

Most men I have met in politics consider themselves automatically experts in the field of propaganda. But almost all of them make the same type of basic error in their propaganda as did the blind men in describing and reconstructing an elephant; both suffer from insufficient experience with the subject. A right-wing businessman, when he gets sick, doesn't try to doctor himself, nor does he try to practice law himself, nor does he even try to do his own advertising. He hires professional experts to do these highly technical jobs for him. But when that same right-wing businessman wants to move the people of a whole nation to an understanding of our national peril, he doesn't hesitate to spend relatively huge sums trying to write and produce his own amateur propaganda. In almost every case he produces propaganda which he likes, completely forgetting in his political excitement that the art of propaganda (and advertising) is not in producing that which one likes and admires one's self, but that which will produce the effect desired - sales in the case of advertising and political conviction in the case of propaganda. Because he is able to think, he presumes that his audience is also able to think — a completely unwarranted assumption. Because he himself is repelled by crudeness and exaggeration, he makes his pitch factual, logical, and usually subtle. In addition to this foolishness, he also forgets that the average man in the street is emotionally assaulted during all his waking hours by advertising brilliantly designed by experts to capture attention through the most powerful kind of psychological impact. The average right wing piece, crowded onto a page, verbose, and dull, is not only not able to win the attention of the average man amid all this competition, but positively repels him.

Even worse propaganda mistakes are made by both these at the top and those at the bottom of the right-wing intellectual spectrum. Because they can't read and understand "them big words," the Man types are "agin" anything other than the andest and most brutal of approaches. "If it "am Tongside the hard with a two-by-four," is the motte of these beys, and any attempt to produce anything else is likely to get you called a "Communist-Jew apy," or get you hit "hongside the hard" yourself. Whis type loves the American Mari Party's "Bott Wicks to Africa" and the Stountrooper, for instance, but rages that the Rockwell Report is too "long" and "duff."

After the other extreme is the Ph.D. right-winger who hurstelly class it is hand over his mouth and culps in nausea when one shows him something like our all-time most popular propaganda piece, our "Boat Ticket to Africa," full of expressions such as "nigger-armpit stench" and the like. Because this refined gentleman prefers to read Spengler or Gobineau, he can't imagine that the ideas of these men might be gotten across to a semi-literate farmer better with a "boat ticket" than with a volume of Houston Stewart Chamberlain.

In the middle group are the Birch-type blind men who produce millions and millions of dollars worth of wasted propaganda; wasted because it is not designed to do the job they really want and need done, but is instead what they like to hear. These people have never yet stopped to reflect that in order to win they need not just the thinkers — the right-wingers, the bourgeois, rich folks, and the rest of the elite minority — but the vast masses of the people who support demagogues like Johnson, FDR, and Kennedy. Goldwater's catastrophe was the result of producing propaganda and campaigns designed to win thinkers instead of masses. The result was that twenty-seven million Goldwater thinkers were swamped at the polls by some forty-three million Johnson wishers and hopers, who can never, never, never be reached by "conservative" logic, facts, and boring, sissy tea parties.

The worst waste of money I have ever seen in the whole field of propaganda was the special Sunday supplement the Birch Society put out not so long ago in newspapers all over America. It cost as much as a quarter of a million dollars in some cities. Had it been designed to appeal to the mass, the "average man," the man who votes with his heart instead of his head, it could have been worth the millions it took to publish. But it was foolishly aimed at a relatively tiny minority. On the front cover, in full color, it showed a typical Birch Society meeting, in the home of a man obviously wealthy — in the kind of living room which would make the average, working-class, overalled American uncomfortable. The Birchers were sitting around sipping tea with their pinkies daintily extended, and the whole atmosphere was foreign, ridiculous, and even painful teacherman in overall to a set a province millions of five delivery.

to the manine over alls—as Americal smillions of "ordinary Joes." There might have been some sense in pointing that piece in Rottune. But to spend money to put that advertisement (which could reach only the rich and the cophisticated) in a mass medium, at the cost of a mass medium, was the kind of thoughtlessness which keeps the right wing powerless, steamelly defeated, and discouraged. Does this mean that the Birch Society's high-level

Does this mean that the Birch Society's high-level appeal is a total wester Should all their propaganda be like that of the Mant An elephant is neither all leg nor all teril nor all turnk. A complete, whole elephant needs all of these parts to live. The Jews, masters of the art of propaganda that they are (unfilte the right wing), have understood this fundamental truth and have organized their "pitch" to appeal to all levels.

For the kids and the primitives — for the "masses" the jews produce comic books and comic strips; crude, apparently "obvious" television programs, movies, and radio presentations; and the sort of printed material one can find in True Confessions and similar magazines — or on privy walls.

For the lower-middle classes, they provide pseudo-"objective" and thoughtful television "documentaries," which flatter the unthinking bourgeois into imagining that they are participating in a scholarly and high-level "study" of a controversial subject, while actually the Jews are pumping into their smug, ego-blinded minds massive doses of raw lies and hatred. They also provide this kind of "intellectual" pap in Look, Life, and other mass-circulation periodicals.

For the upper-middle classes — the college graduates, professionals, and business executives — the Jews produce their Harper's Magazine and Allantic Monthly "think-pieces", which are genuinely intellectual but nevertheless so subtly poisoned by false basic assumptions and misdirections that all the thinking in the world is bound to lead only to error. This is the sort of thing one finds among the sincere race-mixers and liberals, who have been taught, as religious dogmata, that anything other than democracy is unthinkable, that black men are only white men with dark skins, and that all opponents of liberalism are "fascists" who seek to murder almost everybody and who have no ideas other than bloodshed and tyranny. Starting with these as unquestionable premises, the most sincere and well-intentioned "thinking" in the world can produce nothing but the race-mixers, liberals, beatniks, rebels, and lost souls who are swarming like maggots in every intellectual center of our civilization.

Finally, there is the devilishly clever, ivory-tower propaganda designed for the truly intellectual and highly sophisticated academic community, which actually does examine even basic premises. For this latter, elite class, even though it is tiny, the Jews spare no effort or money. For were the intellectual leaders of a nation to see through all the propaganda on the lower levels, it would sooner or later be disastrous to the Jews, when the elite had warned the masses. For this minute, top group, the Jews actually produce manufactured "facts" of the most basic nature.

To give an example of this incredible process, let me cite the method they have used to make it a dogmatic "fact" that there are no measurable, scientific differences between races and, therefore, no races at all! The Jews first got a few of their boys into top university spots (Columbia University being an outstanding, but by no means unique, example) with the express purpose of giving academic respectability to their "there-isno-such-thing-as-race" lie. One of the first and most important of these was Franz Boas, a lew heavily involved in communist causes, who sent congratulations to Stalin on his birthdays (1) and whose red record cannot be doubted by any objective observer. This communistic lew began teaching anthropology at Columbia University in 1896 and dominated the anthropology department there until his death in 1942. Meanwhile he produced one book after another "proving" that there were no such things as racial differences among men (2). The whole of Jewry pitched in to boost their boy. Boas was praised in every lewish-owned newspaper and periodical and given every academic prize they could promote. Little by little, Boas gained such "stature" by this Jewish mutualadmiration society technique that he became an "acknowledged authority" in social anthropology and ethnology. His students and colleagues at Columbia - Herkowits, Klineberg, Ashley Montagu, Weltfish — as unsavory a collection of left-wing Jews as one might hope for - spread his doctrines far and wide, deliberately poisoning the minds of two generations of American students at many of our largest

Meanwhile, honest race researchers were given the opposite treatment, full use being made of economic boycott and unlimited intellectual smear. Honest anthropologists couldn't get their books published or, if published, distributed (4). As just one instance, at the time when Boas was at the height of his destructive activity, Madison Grant, president of the New York Zoological Society and a trustee of the American Museum of Natural History, wrote a study of the racial situation in America, entitled The Conquest of a Continent, or the Expansion of Races in America (New York, 1933). The book was flatly contradictory to the Boas-Jewish racial propaganda and sounded a clear warning of the impending danger of serious racial degeneration in the United States. Whereupon the Anti-Defamation League of Rinai Brith issued a circular letter to publishers, dated December 13, 1933, in which they blatantly stated that Grant's book was "antagonistic to Jewish interests" and demanded that it be "stifled" — as it has been. Copies of this book — and any honest book about race — are very hard to find. They are almost nonexistent in the university community - in such places as college bookstores and all but a few of the largest university libraries.

This whole intellectual fraud would never work if our side had sense enough to understand it and courage enough to stand up to it. But our side can never understand, let alone fight, this vicious Jewish perversion of our people and their minds as long as our side, like the aforementioned blind men, remains utterly mulish in its insistence on amateur and one-level propaganda efforts. The left wing has its organizations and its propaganda at all levels. And the whole left aims the same way — right at your hear!! They have their Dean Achesons, their Harvard professors, their White House presidential aides. But they also have their brutal goon squads in the streets of the steel towns, ready to crack the legs of their opponents over a curbstone, as is their quaint custom. In between, they have their "soldiers" at all levels, and they are all part of the same army of hate against the white man and Western civilization.

Let one of my supercilious, intellectual critics just spend an evening watching television or reading a teenage magazine — not for pleasure, but to analyze the masterful methods of the Jewish brainwashers, and he will see that they do not use intellectual propaganda exclusively to do their devilish work, but also the most stupid, obvious, and brutal anti-intellectual stuff imaginable. At the same time, let him examine the explosion of scatology on any big newsstand and see just what primitive, rough propaganda the Jew produces for the mass mind. Even the pornographic, illegal "comic books" smuggled from kid to kid and man to man are loaded with propaganda for race-mixing and degeneracy. And there is nothing subtle about the disgusting magazines openly sold for queers.

The Jews do not confine their attack on us only to gutter propaganda or only to goon squads; God knows, they certainly have flooded America with their filthy and degenerate "literature," "art," and "poetry," with their "comedians," their warped stage plays, and their savage, jungle "music," while there are still plenty of communist muscle squads to break your head open if they can't pervert it. In short the enemy has brought about a "black miracle" of subversion of our people with his multi-level propaganda, while the reply of the leaders of our people has been almost entirely an attempt to "prove," with facts and arguments, that all this is "wrong." Right and wrong in propaganda have no meaning. There are only effective and ineffective. Jewish propaganda couldn't be more wrong, objectively speaking, but it is almost always right, psychologically. It is carefully aimed; it is designed for a specific audience; it is not concerned with what the producers think and feel, but with what the audience thinks and feels; and it is uniformly excellent and successful in doing the job for which it is intended.

Right-wing propaganda, to choose a contrary example, is almost always wrong. It is invariable, single-level material — usually aimed at the upper middle class. It is utterly disdainful of the audience and endlessly insists that "the truth will make us free," if we just get out enough "literature" (almost none of which is read by prospective converts). Almost all right-wing literature is read by other right-wingers who do not need it. It is basically reactionary, concerned almost wholly with money, taxes, and protection of wealth and vested interests (masked, of course, with "deep concern" for the Constitution, "our American way of life," and the like). It is incredibly snobbish and contemptuous toward the kind of horny-handed, working, hard-pressed "ordinary Joe" who, in his millions, makes up the masses which have kept FDR, Truman, Ike, JFK, and now LBJ in office.

Surely we need the truth and facts and arguments — but only to win over the officers and noncoms of our counter-revolutionary forces and then to educate and train them for intellectual combat with the well-trained forces of the enemy, not to convert the masses. To try to use the "facts and arguments" method with the masses of the people is the eternal stumbling block of the right wing. By insisting on only this method, in its pure (and dull) form, not only the right wing, but any movement of national regeneration, insures that its material is read only by itself and the few Jews whose professional job it is to study and neutralize its material.

Hitler's National Socialist movement not only did not make that stupid mistake, but brilliantly exploited every field of propaganda with inspired material, scientifically designed not only to appeal to a few stuffy professors — but to move people, to move millions of people in the direction desired. Hitler had Julius Streicher's Der Stuermer, full of the wildest and wooliest sensationalism, designed to smash its way into the consciousness of the masses, as it did. He also had the regular party press, designed to reach and convince the great middle class. And, for the university community, he had the esoteric material of Alfred Rosenberg, Gottfried Feder, et al.

Again I stress that, whereas the academic scholar is most powerfully influenced by a logical, heavily footnoted dissertation at the highest intellectual level, the simple farmer or worker is utterly perplexed and repelled by "them big words" and is moved most effectively by a brutal and earthy presentation of a thoroughly subjective, grossly exaggerated picture of any situation. Only the latter class of propaganda can yield the sheer weight of numbers of persuaded people needed to sweep into legal political office. The major propaganda of a mass movement, therefore, must be of the elementary, direct, and emotional kind which alone can win honest hearts (and empty heads) — "boat tickets" and the Storntrooper.

When I began, I purposely made my propaganda as brutal and shockingly rough as I could, simply to force attention. And I have kept everlastingly at the business of building a simple and direct image of all-out hostility to "Jews and niggers" in the minds of millions of Americans, regardless of the costs in other respects, (And when I have the rare opportunity to use some mass medium, as was recently the case when I gave a long interview to Playboy, I am forced to walk a careful line between what I should like to say and what the enemy would like to hear me say. Unless I deliberately sound at least halfway like a raying illiterate with three loose screws, such an interview would never be printed. This is another thing that most people fail to understand about my "Nazi" technique.) After I had become known to most Americans, I published the Rockwell Report at a somewhat higher level than my previous material to begin to recruit some of the brains and funds we needed to proceed. When this had begun to bear fruit, I used the talents obtained with the Rockwell Report to get back down to the people's level and produce a publication designed for the masses, for the "average" man, the comic book reader, kids: the Stormtrooper. As planned, this is now our most popular and largestcirculation publication. And were it not for the Jewish ownership of the news distribution business, we could sell Stormtroopers literally by

My Ph.D. critics regularly berate me for the vulgar and brutal material in the Stormtrooper. Because these gentlemen don't like to see the word "nigger" in print, or crude drawings of Jews, they often insist that I am a damned fool, a hoodlum, or an agent provocateur, trying to ruin the whole movement by printing such rough stuff. These sincere but pitifully blind men are going to have to understand that one can't win elections with Ph.D. votes. As Goldwater proved, one can't win elections even with all the upper classes. It is the vast masses of the lower classes, the beer-and-dirty-joke-loving workers, on whom we must depend finally for survival. The Stormtrooper with its pages full of cartoons, violence, insults, jokes, and general hell is exciting and readable to men who would never, in a million years, pick up and read a right-wing tract.

With a base of operations established and with successful publications directed at both the lowest and the middle-class levels, the movement is finally in a position to afford the relative luxury of a publication directed exclusively at the academic intellectual-professional class. The National Socialist World, now in your hands, is designed not only to reach but to move people in that category, Perhaps our material is not what you, personally, enjoy most. But our aim, and the aim of the World Union of National Socialists, is not to produce material to please our friends — but to win over millions of those who are now our enemies or who are oblivious to both sides. The years of success with the Stormtrooper and the Rockwell Report give me confidence that the new National Socialist World will also do what it has been carefully designed to do — that National Socialist World will beat its way into the highest intellectual circles just as the Stormtrooper smashed its way into the minds of the juveniles and working folks.

Finally, if you'll permit me, I'd like to drive my principal point home with one more analogy. If you own a grocery store, and a man comes in from a painter's truck in overalls to buy groceries, you don't try to sell him a one-ounce jar of Russian caviar at two bucks a throw. You offer him beef, potatoes, and bread. If a French diplomat comes in, you don't offer him hawg jowl; you might try the caviar. It is the same with propaganda. If you wish to win the "trade" of all potential "customers," as we must do if we are to survive, you must have in stock a complete line of goods, especially the kind of goods most desired by the majority of your potential customers — and that means bread, potatoes, and beef, not caviar and truffles. If you can open a special store to peddle only caviar and truffles, do it in the silk-stocking district. Conversely, if you want to open another branch to sell only chitterlings, hawg jowls, and the like, then do it in the "nigger" section of town. And if you want a mass grocery business, in the name of sanity, stock up on something besides caviar and truffles. We intend to win enough "customers" to become masters of the grocery business, against the competition of the greatest and most complete "chain" operation the world has ever seen: "The Sheeney Supermarket," which stocks something for everybody. To do it, we have designed some great products to appeal to specific customers: the "hawg-jowl" Stormtrooper, the "Delmonico steak" Rockwell Report and now the "Cherries Jubilee" which you hold in your hand - National Socialist World

Now go ahead and light the brandy!

It's time to talk about attitude, frens. Framing, too. We have some serious issues with shills and shortterm thinkers poisoning things that should be victories for us. We could use many recent events as case studies - Tulsi Gabbard calling out anti-White racism, Kanye West (or, the rapper formerly known as Kanye, who has changed his name to Ye, which is what I'll call him from here on out) calling out jews—but the negative rhetoric here is mostly the same each time:

- >They're still controlled by jews. I don't care what they said.
- >OH, SO YOU THINK A NIGGER/WOMAN/ETC WILL SAVE YOU? PATHETIC!
- >Blacks/Women/etc. are our enemies, I don't want their help.
- >They're only doing this to stab us in the back later, or to sell something, etc.

And on, and on. Anyone who was pleased to see a (now former) billionaire go on television and name the jew was called into question by these people. Anyone who was pleased to hear a mainstream politician admit to the prevalence of anti-White racism / ideology was called into question by these people.

Perhaps Ye is only trying to sell t-shirts. Perhaps Gabbard just wants to get off of a sinking ship. Even if these criticisms are true (which, so far as I can see, they're probably not), these are still victories for us.

Whenever anything happens in the world, the jews spin it for their benefit. They'll take clear-cut events, question the minutia of something, add some speculation, package it up for consisumption, and convince 10,000,000 people that their bullshit is the actual truth in the events they're discussing. This has been used to cause us massive harm. No one can deny this spin tactic, and it's widely reviled by even the most out-of-touch NPC. Mention media/news/corporate spin techniques and they'll agree with you about how they're dangerous. They don't realize jews are responsible, but they recognize the phenomenon. How could you not? We need to spin things too.

Lets say that Ye isn't our ally and that he's grifting somehow or another. Set aside the facts that he had a shitload of money already; that he lost many millions of dollars by telling the truth; and that there are countless ways he could have sold t-shirts without pissing off the media, calling out the jews, and torching multiple high-influence social media accounts. Even if he was pure grift, without any real care for White lives or the malicious "jewish mafia," as he's started calling it, we should be spinning his words/deeds to be as favorable for us as possible. Ye is enormously influential amongst blacks, but also amongst Gen-Y (millennials) and Gen-Z (zoomers) in general. His refusal to back down and his constant jew naming can, and should, be leveraged to redpill as many of the people within his sphere of influence as humanly possible. We should be going into overdrive to use this opportunity.

>But muh niggers, muh race war, muh pure Aryan struggle!

I've had "frens" post here, in response to me and others, unironically saying that they would rather lose the struggle against the jew than cooperate with blacks, Japanese, etc. This is patently retarded. Hitler had soldiers of every major racial group in his army, including blacks. He was respectful to these men, who fought and died for freedom from jewish domination, even if he ultimately wanted them to return to their own homelands after the conflict was done. He did not turn down the help of able bodied men of other races, and he spoke positively of many cultures and races other than his own.

In short, if your standards of racial purity and association are so unreasonably high that Hitler would have tried to talk some sense into you, you're probably being unrealistic.

Maybe Hitler might have preferred, deep down inside, to fight his struggle with only pure Aryan supermen, but he didn't, and it doesn't take a genius to see why. It also doesn't take a genius to see that we shouldn't throw possible avenues of victory in the garbage because it requires basic cooperation with other groups. Our movement shouldn't be about our hate for all out-groups, but our love for our peoples.

Tell me, if your house was burning down would you insist that every firefighter be White? You'd rather see your wife and kids burn to death than accept non-White help? Of course not. That would be foolish. You love your wife more than you hate blacks, don't you? You should. You should love your family, your Aryan folk, and your culture more than you hate anything. If jew hate is stronger in your heart than Aryan love, you need to reevaluate things. Yes, jews deserve the hate they get, but we hate them for a reason. And that reason is their attempt to destroy our families, our culture, and our folk.

So here, as the jews burn our civilization down, should we really complain if blacks try to help us stand against these cultural arsonists?

Learn to spin every event, no matter what it is, into our own rhetorical victories. Everything that happens should be spun to our greatest benefit. Be unapologetic in your presentation of events and the facts as you see them. Don't 'give the other side a fair view." because they won't ever give us that fair view!

Do you want to enforce ideological purity spiraling, or do you want to win and see your grandchildren live in a world free of kike subversion? Without the eternal jew to stoke racial conflict, it'll be much easier to separate into ethnic homelands. We need to accomplish the former – the removal of jewish influence – to see the latter.

Every color has its place-an ethnic home for every race!

Heil Hitler!

IT'S RELIGIOUS FOR THEM

Perhaps you aren't religious, but our enemies sure as Hell are! They believe themselves to be the chosen people of God. They think you're cattle put here to serve them. While they do everything they can to bash our religions and demoralize other people into nihilistic atheism, their own holy books are still being taught in their ancient tongue. Jews feel that they're carrying out their holy mission by destroying your culture and they think it's hilarious.

We're not saying you need to take up a particular religion, but if you're without a faith you might consider finding one that makes sense to you. If our enemies want to destroy our religious foundations then there is surely a value to retaining our faith. Be you Christian, or Pagan, or Buddhist, or Cosmotheist, you're probably better off with a belief.

This is not meant to insult our atheistic readers. You're still valuable members of your folk and we wish you meaningful lives, regardless of belief. All the same, we urge you to consider the following pieces, collected from various religious traditions.

"These things says the First and the Last, who became dead, and lived: I know your works, and the affliction, and the poverty; but you are rich. And I know the evil speaking of those saying themselves to be Jews, and they are not, but are a synagogue of Satan."

- Jesus Christ Revelation 2:8-9

ONE OF MANY ROADS TO HELL

The following is an excerpt from the Bhagavad Gita, a core holy book of Hinduism. More specifically, we've utilized a commentary on the Bhagavad Gita called the Gitartha-samgraha, written by Abhiravagupta circa 1000 AD, and translated into English by Boris Marjanovic. In these verses, Prince Arjuna warns of the danger inherent in destroying behavioral norms. He expresses concern over racial (caste) intermixture and the damage it does to one's family.

ORIGINAL COMMENTARY: In the following few verses, Arjuna indicates the beginning of the destruction of the traditional norms of behavior (dharmas), such as destruction of family, etc.

CHAPTER 1

VERSES 38-45

32

How could we be happy after killing our own relatives, O Madhava? Even if our relatives, with their minds clouded by greed, do not see anything wrong in the destruction of family and sin in the treachery of friends. How is it possible, O Janardana, that we do not know how to avoid this evil, although we can clearly understand the wrong in bringing destruction upon the family?

When the family is destroyed, the eternal family dharma disappears, and when the family dharma disappears adharma takes control over the entire family. And because of adharma dominating the family, O Krishna, the women of the family become corrupted.

When corruption of women takes place, O Vârsneya, intermixture of castes takes place. This intermixture leads to hell, for the family destroyers and the family itself. Their ancestors fall as well, deprived of offerings of pindodaka due to them. Through the wrongdoings done by the destroyers of the family that causes the intermixture of the castes, the eternal dharmas of caste and family become extinct.

We have heard, O Janârdana, that people whose family dharmas have been destroyed unavoidably need to live in hell.

MODERN SAMURAI

The following is transcribed from a lecture by Haku Zynkyoku entitled "The Origin of the 'Jews' Lies in the Previous Universe." It was originally recorded on March 31st, 2012. Haku Zynkyoku's analysis of the historical record may or may not be accurate, we're not the ones to say. Regardless, we agree with the broad sentiment expressed in this excerpt—we must rouse ourselves to action and resist the onslaught of degeneracy.

[T]he high places of all organizations are predominately controlled by the Judayan Jews, who are themselves evil spirits. And all the original religious works, not to mention the teachings of Christ, were stolen [by Jews]. ...

What the Jews fear the most is "Samurai." A Judayan Jew is someone who hides behind the curtains and pulls strings without ever revealing their true identities. Treachery is their forte. Samurai are the complete opposite of a Jew. When I say "Samurai," I'm not referring solely to the Japanese Samurai clans, but to those in all the nations of the world who are brave and courageous warriors. The wild western gunslinging cowboys and the Americans who fought in the revolution to win their freedom can also be called Samurai. Obviously, there are also Samurai in Africa and other continents as well.

Therefore, an earthly operation is about to commence. That is, an operation to completely overturn the status of rule and to subjugate the Jews. In order for this operation to succeed, all the Samurai of the world have to rouse themselves to action. This is what the Jews fear the most.

LYING ISN'T ARYAN

The Vinava-Pitaka (The Book of the Discipline) is a foundational text of Buddhism, said to have been compiled shortly following the death of Siddhartha Gautama, the man now commonly called the Buddha. This would place the creation of this text to somewhere around 500 - 400 BC. This excerpt was translated into English by I. B. Horner circa 1938. If one reads the entire thing, they'll find much of it to be common sense, with long lists of rules such as "don't chew with your mouth open," "don't bathe too much or too little," "don't light fires unnecessarily," and "don't purposefully try to frighten others." We are, of course, paraphrasing.

The rule we'd like to highlight now could be paraphrased as "don't lie," and that too might seem like an obvious thing. Yet many of us do lie—just as many chew obnoxiously, bathe at irregular intervals, and torment their fellow Aryans. Ultimately, The Book of the Discipline seeks to help readers expel these bad behaviors.

"In telling a conscious lie, there is an offense of expiation [i.e., an offense requiring atonement]."

Telling a conscious lie means: the words, the utterance, the speech, the talk, the language, the intimation, the un-Aryan statements of one intent upon deceiving with words, saying: "I have seen what I have not seen, heard what I have not heard, sensed what I have not sensed, cognized what I have not cognized. I have not seen what I have seen, not heard what I have heard, not sensed what I have sensed, not cognized what I have cognized."

LINGUAL NECROMANCY

by Fren, Sun 13 November 2022 08:53:55

I've seen posts here conveying a desire to revive an ancient European language, for spiritual and political purposes. The same was done with Hebrew. But why did Hebrew succeed, while other attempts fail? In Ireland, they attempted to revive Gaeilge, and failed. Attempts have been made (and are still being made) to revive Latin, and they fail. So what gives?

Who is Fliezer Perlman?

Eliezer Perlman was a Russian jew obsessed with Hebrew. Introduced to radical zionist works written in modernized Hebrew. Eliezer became inspired to revive the language. This is the first failure of language necromancers: they neglect to produce valuable works written in their preferred language. A Westerner who insists that Latin is the defacto language of the white race should write more in Latin than in English. A National Socialist who believes in spreading German should write only in German.

>Who is going to read a dead language?

Hebrew was almost never spoken, and only used for religious/political purposes. Its popularity was with radicals, traditionalists, and nationalist linguists, not with average jews. It only became modern Hebrew after these radical jewish linguists modernized it themselves. New dictionaries were produced and, of course, new works written only in Hebrew. Soon, schools not only taught Hebrew, but also taught all other subjects in Hebrew as well. The goal was to make Hebrew so prominent that it would force its way into the home. Soon, Eliezer had a child, who he forbade from speaking anything but Hebrew. He forbade his wife from speaking anything but Hebrew too, thus producing the first neo-Hebrew native speaker. A large factor in promoting Hebrew literacy was that Yiddish speaking jews and Aramaic speaking jews could communicate if they both spoke Hebrew.

So how does one revive a dead language? First, let's talk about how you don't. Ireland has completely failed to revive their native language of Gaeilge, Among many reasons are: a lack of nationalism in Ireland, a lack of accepted ancient religious texts (a Catholic Irishman is more likely to learn Hebrew to honor their religion that to learn Irish to honor their ancestors, sadly), and liberalism in teaching the language. Even Irish linguists admit that they neglected Irish in school, as it was only one subject. It seemed pointless to learn, as everyone there already speaks English. That being said, English, like Hebrew, is largely used as the lingua franca between European people nowadays. For these reasons, Irish (Gaeilge) is neglected.

Is there even a need to revive a language for Europeans? English is already so successful and dominant, with elements of English taken from French and Latin, two other previous linguae francae for the white race. I believe a lingua franca is less important to people than a religious/political language, and this is why there is a desire to revive a dead language, or to speak something other than English. Some potential choices for a new lingua franca could be:

Latin: Lots of old literature, but perhaps redundant with the existence of French and other Romance languages that are more developed >French: Once more redundant considering its similarity to English. French is also already successful and in no need of reviving German: A good choice for National Socialists. Some of the best literature available in any language was written in German, making it a good candidate. Ancient Greek: Older than Latin, with new words being easy to produce as versions can be reconstructed from modern Greek. There's already a lot of great literature written in Koine Greek, the most standard ancient dialect. Irish: Just to troll the English

Russian: Just to troll the West

>Old Avestan: Ancient Aryan language, religious language of Zoroastrianism. Not very practical and with low traction amongst linguists.

So what's the best choice? If it can't be English, then German. But English has the most literature, some interesting epics, and nearly every religion has an English translation. Rather than reviving another language, I suggest instead that we revive true English. By studying its grammar like we would a foreign language, taking care to practice our speaking tone, and creating a new dialect of sorts—distinguishable enough from modern English that it has its own identity, but similar enough so that it is easy to learn.

Return the usage of gendered language.

A female doctor becomes a doctress, a female philosopher becomes a philosophress, and so on. Note other suffixes too: cigar becomes cigarette (-ette), hero becomes heroine (-ine). Gendered language ironically fell out of use with the rise of female literacy and feminism in English speaking

>Return the usage of proper grammatical cases, perhaps even including archaic declensions for pronouns only.

This could cause our speech to sound more learned. For example, "Me and you are friends," when compared to "You and I are friends," sounds childish. This is because "me" and "I" are essentially the same word – the first person Personal Pronoun – but in different grammatical cases. Despite that, they are used in the previous sentences in the same grammatical case, as if interchangeable. To the uneducated they are interchangeable.

In modern English, "you" is used for the subject case and object case, in the singular and plural: "You are my friend, I love you," and "You are my friends, I love you." However, using old pronouns these would become: "Thou are my friend, I love thee," and "Ye are my friends, I love you." Personal pronouns would become: I/me/my, thou/thee/thy, he/him/his, she/her/hers, it/it/its, we/us/our, ye/you/your, they/them/their, who/whom/whose.

Ultimately, reintroducing gendered language is a means to protest feminism and sexology pushed by jews. The return of grammatical case to pronouns resists the nigger-speak of the younger generations (called African-American Vernacular English, AAVE, by "intellectuals"). Notice that the main difference between AAVE and older, more European English, is that AAVE does not always conjugate verbs for tense, and does not always decline pronouns for grammatical case. In addition, the copula is dropped like in Russia, double negatives are accepted as negative (rather than positive), and so

Language is important for controlling thought and culture. We must take English back. Yids revived Hebrew because they needed a lingua franca. We don't need a lingua franca, we have English, but we should hold English to a higher standard than the zoomer-nigger-jew-speak that is preferred among the youths today. Learn to speak English clearly and learn grammar. As Ted Kaczynski once said: your handwriting should be clear, so should your speech and grammar. All you need to make a change is persistence.

P.S. Don't let the propaganda fool you, it's OK to be a grammar Nazi.

The New Hampshire DOJ is attempting to charge two alleged members of NSC-131 (National Social Club-131) with civil rights violations. They're threatening these men with penalties of up to $15,000 for hanging a banner on public property, at an overpass in Portsmouth. The banner bore a slogan protected by the First Amendment. Additionally, the New Hampshire DOJ is seeking to permanently restrict the speech of NSC-131 as a whole.

This sets a dangerous legal precedent for anyone who may have participated in First Amendment protected activism or plans to engage in future activism. We must resist this egregious violation of our rights!

Please donate whatever you can spare to help secure an adequate legal defense for alleged NSC-131 members Christopher Hood and Leo Anthony Cullinan. With our help they can strike down these charges and maintain the sanctity of the First Amendment.

"PROFESSIONAL" MEDIA CRITICS HATE YOU.

They don't know what you like and they don't care. They don't even think about it. Their real bosses are the people making the content they review, as multimedia companies fund the critics by purchasing advertisement space on their publications. It's a hilariously blatant conflict of interest and they think we're too stupid to notice. Why do you think the critic and audience scores never match? The job of a modern critic is to praise the content they've been paid to praise.

It doesn't have to be this way. You deserve straightforward information about the content you and your family consume. Get real reviews from real people, with aggregated information from mainstream sources for quick comparisons. See how "diverse" a film is at a glance, without reading about anyone's "Early Life." It's the best way to know if a film, show, or game is worth your time.
